“ She was a woman of faith, family, and friends. She liked to shop, crochet, and join in activities. She put great thought into the things she did whether it was coloring a fall picture or making a baby blanket. She watched over her roomies and always asked when someone didn't come to an activity. She would check on them herself. She was interested in others. She would remember birthdays and names of your family members. She gave great advice! Always had something yummy. Loved red and red trucks. Oh, I dont want to forget she was a "collector ". I appreciated that because I am also a "collector". She had a sharp memory, liked to talk politics, and was a Trump supporter. She was a night owl. She liked her bedtime creamed potatoes. I did love my Miss Faye. I send love and prayers for her family. She raised smart productive children with her love for others passed on to them. I know she was proud of each of you. God Bless
